Happy New Year! The City of Clewiston administration and management team enters 2024 with excitement and a renewed commitment to provide the best possible public services to the citizens, businesses, patrons and visitors that make up this fine community. Management's pledge to the City Commission entering the new year is to continue giving the very best effort possible to ensure that the needs of the community remain the priority and that city resources focus on meeting needs in an efficient, professional and public service oriented manner. To accomplish the desired goals on the journey to make Clewiston the best it can be, the City appreciates the many partners, patrons and dedicated volunteers who support so many of our programs and services. Thank you for all the past contributions.

For those who have in the past not been engaged in community activities or are new to the area, express your interest if you desire to become involved in the future. As referenced and described in this monthly publication and on city social media platforms, Clewiston is regularly pursuing a long list of activities and offerings for the benefit of the community. The past several years have seen a number of positive steps taken to this end, but considerable opportunities for additional improvement remain. The coming year is expected to see more in terms of new or improved programming and enhancements to public facilities to further upgrade service levels and operational capacity. Going forward, feedback is certainly welcomed on how the City is doing. In this space, management commits to keeping the community informed of progress as well as setbacks going forward. Together let's make this year and its accomplishments the best yet!

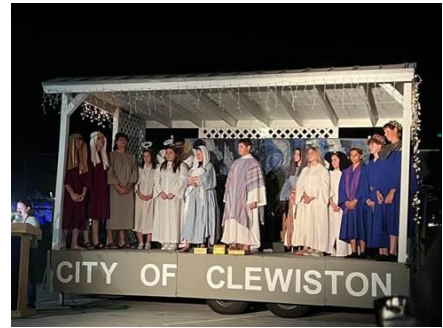

Thank you for your continued support and interest in the City of Clewiston,

Community Development Director/Fire Chief Travis Reese reports:

Dry conditions and steady winds are the prime ingredients for potential wildfires. Residents should take extra measures to ensure their safety during the dry season. As seen in the past, in just a moment, a brushfire can go from a natural controlled situation to a major threat to life and property. Here are some tips:

- Shrubs, brush, woodpiles and combustible debris should be removed within a radius of 30 feet from your home.
- The distance between your house and any nearby trees should be a minimum of 10 feet.
- Clear roof surfaces and gutters regularly to avoid build-up of flammable materials such as leaves and other debris.
- Place connected garden hoses at all sides of your home for emergency use.
- Store gasoline in approved safety cans, away from occupied buildings.
- Ensure that you and your family know all emergency exits from your home, and evacuation routes from your neighborhood.
- Around your home, make sure branches are cleared back a safe distance from any overhead power lines.
- Never dispose of cigarettes anywhere but in an ashtray or other proper receptacle.

- Wildfires can cause major environmental, social and economic damage. The loss of timber, wildlife habitat, homes and even lives may result from a devastating wildfire. For more information on wildfires, visit the Florida Division of Forestry website.

Most cold weather risk factors are the result of the measures that we take to keep ourselves warm and not the direct result of exposure to cold temperatures. This is especially true here in South Florida, where the temperature rarely drops below 60 degrees, even in the winter.

Statistically, even in colder climates, very few people freeze to death compared to the number of people who are seriously or fatally injured by fires that are caused by common winter heating methods.

The fact that we don't have to worry about brutal winter temperatures might be the very reason that we are so vulnerable to the effects of cold weather. Northerners are conditioned to switch into winter mode at the first cold snap and they are accustomed to dealing with the safety issues that go along with keeping warm.

In a way, South Floridians are at a disadvantage when we are faced with cold weather because we don't get a whole lot of experience with it. Winter weather doesn't have to be sub-zero to be dangerous; it just has to be cold enough to make us feel cold.

But don't worry, there's no need to pack up and move even closer to the equator. You just have to keep a few safety tips in mind. You can use the four P's to help you protect yourself and those in your care:

- Protect People: This includes yourself, but pay careful attention to children and the elderly. They are especially vulnerable to cold and the least able to protect themselves. Dress in layers of loose-fitting warm clothing. This will allow you to shed to the appropriate layer once the day begins to heat up. When outdoors, wear a hat that covers your ears. You lose as much as 40 percent of body heat through your head.
- Protect Plants: Bring potted plants indoors. Keep outdoor plants and trees watered. Remember that dry weather and wind create the perfect conditions for brush fires. If you live near heavily forested or undeveloped land, keep your property well-manicured and free of dry or dead vegetation.
- Protect Pets: Bring all pets indoors. Pets that must be left outside should have an enclosed shelter with the entrance facing away from the wind.
- Protect against fires in the home: This is one of the most important winter considerations. Take the time to prepare and inspect heating equipment before using. According to the National Fire Protection Association, incorrect use of heating equipment is the leading cause of home fires.
Most home fires in the winter are associated with portable heating equipment which is poorly installed, poorly maintained or misused. Use central heating whenever possible, but if you must use a portable space heater, here are some safety guidelines:
 - Choose electric space heaters and use only those that are UL approved. Look for models that include safety features such as an automatic shut-off when tipped over.
 - Avoid the use of extension cords with space heaters, but if you must use one, make sure it is the proper size and length. Never run cords under rugs or carpets.

- Keep your heater at least three feet away from furniture, curtains and other flammable items.
- Install recommended smoke and carbon monoxide detectors and replace batteries regularly.
- Never use charcoal or other fuel-burning devices indoors, such as grills that produce carbon monoxide.
- Make sure all equipment is clean and dust free.
- Never use your oven to heat your home.
- Keep a close eye on children and pets whenever a space heater is being used.
- Always turn off heaters when leaving home.

If you're still not convinced that cold weather in South Florida can be a threat, you should know that along with most of our cold fronts, Miami-Dade usually experiences a significant spike in fire calls, especially in residential occupancies.

Police Chief Tom Lewis reports: Police Department

On December 4, 2023, Chief Lewis participated in Shop with a Rotarian. 30 local children were given the opportunity to go Christmas shopping with a local community leader. Partnering with the local schools, the members of the Rotary Club of Clewiston hosted the event at Clewiston Walmart.

On December 6, 2023, Sergeant Tito Nieves participated as an observer in Hendry Regional Medical Center’s mock mass-casualty drill.

On December 7, 2023, the Clewiston Police Explorers held their annual awards ceremony at the Clewiston High School Auditorium. Congratulations to all of the awards recipients. There were also several Explorer promotions as many had displayed leadership abilities throughout the year. Congratulations to the newly promoted Explorer Post Commander, Roly Gonzalez. A thank you to the staff at Clewiston High School for hosting us and a thank you to the Hendry County Sheriff’s Office Explorer Post for partnering with us to do the Presentation of Colors for the event.

On December 9, 2023, the department held it’s annual Shop with a Cop event. 25 local children were given the opportunity to do Christmas shopping with a Police Officer, Firefighter, or Paramedic. What an awesome community we have when we come together during the holiday season for those less fortunate.

WE'RE GETTING ACCREDITED!!! – Over the last 28 months, we have worked hard to manage and operate your police department to the best known industry standards and to achieve accredited status for the first time in the 98-year history of the city. We are very pleased to report that three subject matter experts from around the state provided our agency with a multi-day on-site assessment from December 12-14, 2023. During this time, the Commission for Florida Law Enforcement Accreditation (CFA) evaluated our agency from top to bottom. This accredited status, which we anticipate receiving on February 22, 2024, will show the public, whom we proudly serve every day, that every aspect of our agency is operating under best practices and outside experts get a continuing first-hand look at our operation. We couldn't be more proud of the men and women of CPD!

On December 19, 2023, Chief Lewis joined Mooreski in the Morning on WAFC Radio. The Chief discussed topics going on at the police department as well as traffic concerns, Neighborhood Watch, accreditation progress, staffing, and more.

Neighborhood Watch – On December 19, 2023, the Police Department had the initial kick-off meeting for our new neighborhood watch program. There are many benefits to neighborhood watch such as building stronger relationships between the police and the community we serve, residents becoming more educated about police operations, getting help in reducing the risk of crime for you and your neighbors, working together for disaster preparedness, etc. If you are interested in joining our program or learning more, please email Chief Tom Lewis at Thomas.lewis@clewiston-fl.gov.

On December 20, 2023, the department held its annual Night with Santa event. All members of the community were encouraged to stop by the police department lobby, get free family pictures with Santa and Mrs. Clause as well as get a free gift for every child. We estimate that 400-500 kids showed up! It was an incredible event and another way that your police department partners with the community when it comes to our kids.

On December 23, 2023, the police department held our first-ever, free to the community, Movie Night in the Park at Tent City Park. We played a Christmas movie on a 21-foot screen while everyone had the opportunity to get popcorn, candy, and soda from our Clewiston Police Explorers. You won't want to miss the next one.

Animal Services

In the month of December 2023, Animal Services reported the intake of more than 15 cats and 21 dogs.

WE HIRED A SHELTER MANAGER! After taking more than 20 applications and conducting interviews, we will be announcing our newest Animal Services employee very soon. This is a newly created position that will assist the police administration in supervising the animal shelter operation – ensuring a higher level of care for every animal that enters our facility.

December 6, 2023, the animal shelter hosted the RotaKids from West Side Elementary School. The children came by to see first-hand the great impact made by their recent donation of linens and food. We couldn't have been more impressed with these future leaders!

Highlighted Training
